

Gavin Liu

President, Asia Markets

Gavin Liu is President of the Asia Markets at Westinghouse Electric Company. In this role, he fosters strategic relationships with our customers throughout Asia in support of our global businesses. Prior to this role, he was the President of Asia Operating Plant Services business unit where he successfully led business development, sales and delivery for the existing nuclear operating plant customers across Asia.

Previously, Mr. Liu was the Senior Vice President of ABB Group, responsible for the Power System Division in China and the North Asia Region. He joined Westinghouse as part of the ABB CE acquisition in 2000 where he built relationships with customers in China to secure the contracts for the first four AP1000® nuclear power plant units as Vice President and Managing Director of the Asia Region's China sub-region.

Mr. Liu brings more than 30 years of experience in the energy industry and began his career in the China Ministry of Electric Power.

Mr. Liu graduated from Tsinghua University with a degree in Thermal Engineering and received his Master of Business Administration (MBA) from Peking University.
